Nancy Wynne Tells of Ball at Narragansett—She Hears that Mrs. Barlow Is Victim of Golf Ball—Contest in Dancing at Cape May Saturday

THE costume ball which is always the excitement of the year in Narragansett Pier was held on Friday night in the Casino and was a wonderful affair from all points of view.

I remember the first year Dorothy came back from Paris and made her debut here. She and her mother had been abroad for several years and they came home to introduce Dorothy into society in her home city.

Dorothy was very foreign in manner and dress and made quite a sensation at her first winter, and her dancing at several of the amateur charity benefits was beyond the amateur in every way.

Some of the Philadelphians who attended the ball this year were Hope Cromwell, who is up here, who is to be a debutante next year.

It was a wonderful thing that her front teeth were not knocked out, but as it is she is suffering dreadfully from a badly split lip.

EVERY one was thrilled to a finish down at Cape May on Saturday night. The first dancing contest of the season was held at the Red Mill and for days before every one was in the excitement of the contest.

I SAW Margaret Herwind on Chestnut street Saturday. She must have come home for a day or so, for if it wasn't she, she must have been that's all I can say.

I HEAR that Mrs. Gardner Cassatt will come home today to her place in Berwyn. She and Gardner and Ellen Mary have been a great part of the spring and summer traveling in far Japan, but they came home about three weeks ago.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBIT TO BE GREAT EVENT

Philadelphia-Made Goods Display to Open September 8 at First Regiment Armory

Announcement is made by W. H. Fisher, W. R. Kelley and L. D. Oldner, comprising the committee in charge of the Philadelphia-made Goods Exhibition which will be held in the First Regiment armory during the week of September 8, that from reports received from big manufacturing plants of the Philadelphia district, the displays will prove the last word in visualizing the city's industrial greatness and the wide variety of its products.

Many of the exhibits also will tend to show the strides which have been made since the war in the production of goods for which this country therefore depended on foreign countries and which were unobtainable because of the world conflict.

These instruments of many sorts as well as dies, tools and glass for instruments. The exhibits will range from pins all the way through the gamut of products to railway cars and when the exposition opens thousands of Philadelphians and out-of-town visitors will be greeted by the most imposing array of Philadelphia-made goods ever assembled under one roof, it is said.

Arrangements for handling a throng have been completed. Thousands of visitors will be here for the Knights of Templar Conclave and will attend the big show.

General Howze brought back from France a silver medalion reproducing the lion of Belford, which was carved from a natural rock by Bartholdi, designer of the Statue of Liberty. The medalion was presented to him by the French Government.

General Howze also has a letter from Andre Tardieu, commanding general of Franco-American relations, praising the Third Division for its heroic work in stemming the German tide.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Edwin D. Starbuck, of the Iowa State University; Augustus T. Murray, of Leland Stanford, Jr., University; Dr. Warren H. Wilson, director of Church and Country Life of New York city; Charles F. Weller, of the community service, Chester; Dr. George A. Walton, of George School; Elbert Russell, of the Woolman School; Dr. Thomas A. Jenkins, of the University of Chicago; Esther E. Baldwin, West Chester, and Kenneth L. Fry, secretary of the public charities association, Pennsylvania.

Death was due to a complication of diseases. She was a member of the Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality, Ladies of Charity, Altar Society and Christian Mothers of Notre Dame. Two sons, Camille and Walter Tiers, survive her. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic Church, East Price street, Germantown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Emig, of Riverside, N. J., celebrate Anniversary. Riverside, N. J., Aug. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. John Emig, who were married August 23, 1867, on Saturday celebrated their fifty-second wedding anniversary at their home in this place, surrounded by their children and grandchildren and a few friends.

Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Emig celebrated their golden wedding by renewing their vows of fifty years ago in the church in which they were married. The ceremony was unique as the couple were attended by the bridesmaid and best man who had attended them on their wedding day fifty years previous.

Mr. and Mrs. Emig came to Riverside when the town was known as Progress. Mr. Emig established the first tailor shop in this section of the county and did a large business, retiring a few years ago, with a comfortable income.

DIFFER ON DROPPING OBEY FROM NUPTIALS

Some Baltimore Episcopalians Want Traditional Promise Kept in Marital Rites

Baltimore, Aug. 25.—Bishops, ministers and laymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church who would delete the word "obey" from the marriage ceremony are likely to have a fight on their hands, according to ministers and laymen of the same denomination in Baltimore.

The proposed change is of minor importance to many of the ministers and makes no real difference in the basic obligations contracted in the marriage ceremony, they say, but they claim many conservative men who have a regard for the past will object to any change in the customs of years.

The Rev. Dr. H. Allison, of St. Michael's Church, one of the wealthiest in the city, said today: "Very few women at whose marriages I have officiated have made any serious objection to the word. Of course there are some who object to it on principle, believing it may be interpreted into binding them to subject obedience to their husbands."

"The movement, however, I believe toward the removal of the word from the churchmen to reveal to women the desire of men to place them in all things on an equal footing. If this is brought forward for the past will object to the change I think it will be welcomed by virtually all."

Conservative churchmen here look upon the deleting of the phrase in the wedding ceremony "with all my worldly goods I thee endow" as simply the dropping of a phrase which was inserted centuries ago at the mandate of the old canon law, and which is the fact of that portion of the law becoming obsolete, has rendered useless and cumbersome.

Fat Causes Kitchen Fire
Fire this morning in the home of Mrs. William Haughey, 1804 Cayuga street, destroyed an outer kitchen, and damaged part of the dining-room. Mrs. Haughey had placed some fat on the gas range to render it. She noticed flames enveloping the gas range and one side of the wall in the outer kitchen. She ran screaming to the front door. A neighbor heard her cries, and turned in an alarm.
